

Signs of Discrimination Against Students with Disabilities

From Teachers

- Low grades that don't reflect your child's performance
- Not implementing or ignoring your child's IEP (Individualized Education Program)
- Child is ignored in class
- Disciplined for small matters (often for things related to disability)
- Being singled out negatively
- Refusal to make reasonable accommodations for disabilities
- Other actions that create a hostile environment
  - Write ation here: _____

From School Administration

- Not following up on reports of bullying
- Administering harsh or unreasonable punishments
- Discipling child for small matters (often for things related to disabilities)
- Ignorning reports of discrimination or bullying
- Recommending students with disabilities transfer
- Other actions that create a hostile environment
  - Write ation here: _____

From District

- Not offering training and seminars for staff in Acceptance, tolerance, and Special Education
- Recommending all students with disabilities go to the same school
- Not responding to reports of discimination in schools
- Refusing to create or implement an IEP for your child
- Having multiple reports of discimination across schools in the district

What to Do Legally

- Keep records of all incidents of discrimination
- Keep records of all communication with teachers, administrators, and the district.
- Call Cueto Law at 618-277-1554

Disclaimer: The advice provided in this checklist is not complete or customized to your individual situation. Please always follow the advice of professionals aware of the specifics of your case. We at Cueto Law are not liable for any damage that comes from injury in following this checklist. The use of this checklist does not make you a client for Cueto Law and does not constitute legal advice.